Edward was born in Frankfort, Franklin County, Kentucky, on 24 April 1844 to Lysander and Hannah Ann (Price) Hord. Edward served in Company 'A', 1st Kentucky Cavalry, Confederate States of America Army during the Civil War. He married Sarah (Sallie) Tribune Gooch in Shreveport, Caddo Parish, Louisiana, on 24 January 1868. Edward and Sarah moved several times as shown by the different birth locations of the children, but they settled in Ravenna, Fannin County, Texas where they raised their family and farmed. There is no land records of them owning any land so it is presumed they worked the land for somebody else or were renters on some farmland. Sarah was born in Shreveport, Caddo Parish, Louisiana, on 27 November 1849. Edward died in Ravenna, Fannin County, Texas, on 7 January 1905. After Edward's death, Lucy Hord was appointed as the administratrix of his estate which only included personal property which he still owed money on. On 1 August 1905 Lucie Hord was appointed the guardian of Sarah Hord (a person of unsound mind) and her two minor brothers. Sarah was committed to the State Asylum for the insane at Terrell, Texas, and died on 21 March 1910.

The Great Grandparents

Lysander Hord
and
Hannah Ann Price

Lysander was born in Frankfort, Franklin County, Kentucky, on 17 January 1815 to Edward and Elizabeth (Benson) Hord. He married Hannah Ann Price, 22 October 1839. She was born 22 May 1812. He received his early education in the country schools of Mason and Clark Counties, Kentucky, where his father resided, and afterwards attended one session in the Centre College, Danville, Kentucky, and two sessions in Augusta College, Bracken County, Kentucky. Before he was of age he was placed by his guardian and uncle, Benjamin Harrison, in the office of Gov. Charles S. Morehead and Hon. Mason Brown of Frankfort, Kentucky, where he read law, and in 1839 was admitted to the bar in Frankfort. He began the practice of law at Frankfort, forming a partnership first with Gov. James T. Morehead and afterward with S.F.J. Trabne. He was in early life a Whig, and cast his vote for General William H. Harrison as President, but after the war began he changed his opinions and became a Democrat. In 1845 he was elected police judge of Frankfort, and afterward was elected county judge and served six years. In 1850 he was elected to represent Franklin County in the lower house of the Legislature, and served during the first and long session of that body after the adoption of the State Constitution of 1849. He again represented the county in 1879. During all the time of his service in the Legislature he was untiring in his efforts to promote the best interests of the people of the State. It was through him that a reformation in the management of the State penitentiary was effected, and he wrote and published a series of able articles in the Kentucky Yeoman in support of his views on that question and on the improvements needed on the Kentucky River. His views on the management of the penitentiary were adopted by Gov. Blackburn and the Legislature in 1880. It was through these articles and his efforts that the locks and dams built by the State of Kentucky were transferred to the United States government and a rebuilding program started that would rebuild the old locks and dams to improve the navigation of the Kentucky River. He was a leader in the development of all the coal and lumber regions of the State. Judge Hord resided in Frankfort, Kentucky, and died there on 9 January 1904. Hannah had died earlier on 24 November 1898. Both are buried in the Frankfort Cemetery, section G, along with several children.

He was an officer in the Virginia militia during the Revolution, and after the close of the war emigrated to Kentucky in 1786, and settled on Mill Creek, in Mason County, where he died in 1814. He was a famous hunter and Indian fighter. The following story is related of him:

"On one occasion, when he was a very old man, he was going down the Licking River, Kentucky, in a canoe, with his son Elias. They heard chopping in the woods near the banks of the river. The canoe was paddled to the shore, and Jesse Hord, taking his rifle, crawled up the bank, leaving his son Elias in the canoe. The boy saw his father cock his rifle and take a long sight at something. Then he would lay down the rifle and seem to be convulsed with laughter, as if something amused him very much. He would then pick up the rifle again, take another sight, and repeat the same actions. His son, much astonished, left the canoe and crept up the bank to see what was the matter. In reply to his son's questions, the father pointed to two Indians, one standing on the shoulders of the other, chopping the bark from a slippery-elm tree with a tomahawk. He said that he was laughing to think what a fall he intended to give the smaller Indian who was standing on the shoulders of the other, and, controlling his laughter, he fired at the Indian standing on the ground, who fell dead, while his companion, turning two or three somersaults, fell to the ground. He immediately sprang to his feet with a frightened yell and fled into the woods like a deer, leaving behind him his dead companion and his own blanket and gun."

The 5th Great Grandparents

John Hord
and
Jane Jeane

John Hord was an English gentleman. He was born in Ewell, County of Surrey, England, 29 December 1664; was baptized there 19 January 1665. He came to Virginia in 1685, and it is supposed that he was engaged in the rebellion of the Duke of Monmouth against King James II, and came to America after the defeat of the former. It is a well-known fact that several other members of the family were engaged in the rebellion, and a record is still extant showing that Thomas Heard (Hord), Esq., of "Cote House," the head of the family at that time, was imprisoned in Oxford Castle for this offense. John Hord came to Virginia and resided in Middlesex County until 1717, when he removed to Essex County and purchased a large tract of land in what is now Caroline County, on the Rappahannock River, which he named "Shady Grove." This tract was a part of an original grant made to Sir Thomas Lunsford. His house was brought from England in sections, and was still standing in 1915. It was located two miles south of the Rappahannock River, and eight miles below where the village of Port Royal now stands. The present dividing line between the counties of Caroline and Essex passes near it. It was a large, double mansion, with a spacious hall ten feet in width running through the center, having on each side rooms twenty feet square. In the middle of the hall was an archway handsomely carved. The entire building was massive and substantial, having hardwood floors, tall white mantels, and handsomely paneled doors. It was two stories high, built of massive timbers, with brick foundations and chimneys. Projecting from the ground in front were two brick pillars that supported an upper and lower porch. John Hord married Jane Jeane in Virginia, and died in St. Ann's Parish, Essex County about the year 1749. John was a planter and held positions of a grand juror and of Surveyor of Roads. His land descended to his son Ambrose, who willed the land to the son (John), of his brother, (William), and to his son, Robert, who sold the estate in 1821 to Daniel Reynolds.
